How Does a Soldier Feel in a Life-and-Death Crisis?

He was caught—like a rat in a trap—with only one chance in a million of coming out alive. He thought of—

What does a soldier think of in a life-and-death crisis? How does he feel? What does he do? What is the millionth chance that he takes to escape?

While trembling and hot from the experiences they have gone through, over two hundred men—airmen, trench raiders, submarine commanders, grenade throwers—have told what they saw, heard and felt. To read these stories of personal adventure is to get an entirely new viewpoint of the war.

A Close-Up of the War

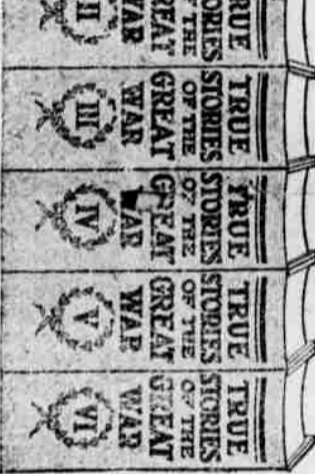

Newspapers and magazines treat the war along broad, general lines—they speak of nations and armies. But these stories tell you about the most daring, audacious and heroic deeds of MEN—individuals. They tell of exploits which even now you think never could happen. No professional author in the history of literature could tell such stories, for no man's imagination could think them up. Yet each of these stories is true—and so startling that the mind simply stands agape at wonder. They would thrill a man with blood as cold as a fish.

"True Adventures of the Great War"

6 Volumes Free!

The Review of Reviews has collected these two hundred and more stories in six handsome volumes, containing altogether 1800 pages, profusely illustrated. Every one of these stories is absolutely genuine as to the facts related; every one of them is told in the words of the person who is the hero or heroine of the exploit. And now, for a limited time, you can secure these six volumes free, with a two-year subscription to the Review of Reviews.

Now, and during the next few years, as never before, every intelligent American will need the Review of Reviews. The world is on the verge, it is in the throes of social, industrial and political changes that are cataclysmic. One cannot form opinions on these revolutionary events, one cannot base his acts intelligently upon them—unless he understands the real war situation, unless the facts, all the facts, are known. It is genuine patriotic duty in these coming days of trial for every citizen to know comprehensively what is happening in the world around him.

Send No Money

The subscription to Review of Reviews is offered at the regular price. The six volumes described above will be given in addition, absolutely free. So that no one may act in the dark, the books will be sent first for examination, all charges prepaid, and if they do not come up to expectation, they may be returned within five days. The subscription cancelled. Only my name for a two-year subscription to Review of Reviews. I agree to return the six volumes in 5 days if I am not satisfied with them, or I will send you $25 in 5 days and $1 a month for six months thereafter, making a total of $45, which is the regular price of the magazine alone, plus $25 to partially cover packing and shipping six volumes.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

An Appreciation.

For many years with others I have felt that much of the true Christmas spirit was being lost sight of, and that the season had become one of gift-swapping, with bestowals of nothing upon those from whom nothing could be expected in return.

This spirit was so out of harmony with the spirit of Him who made Christmas possible that giving in His name and without the spirit had become mockery.

The calls for help that have come to us lately, for Belgian relief, for Armenian and Syrian relief, for the War Work of the Y. M. C. A., of the various other causes impressed upon us by the great world strife, have brought us again to the old time spirit of Christmas giving, that of "giving hoping for nothing in return."

No finer example of this has come to my notice than has been forced upon me in the past few days. Compelled as I have been to put aside practically all plans for doing for others, on account of my accident, and when it was known that I could do nothing in return I have been the recipient of more expressions of good will, than I have ever known in my life before. As many of these expressions came from those who preferred not even to be known as the senders, I want to take the liberty of saying through the columns of the Chronicle, how much I not only appreciate the gifts that have been bestowed but also the spirit in which they have been given. Such examples of goodwill show the perpetual power of example in the life of Him who gave Himself for us.

My family join me in praying His richest blessings upon you, one and all, in this New Year.

Sincerely,
Frank March.
